

Library Proposals Consultation – Survey Feedback

A total of 369 individuals (0.35% of Darlington residents¹) responded to the library consultation via either the online microsite or paper survey, with a total of 3,649 feedback forms completed for the various proposals in total. On average respondents fed back on 10 out of the 25 separate service areas.

The number of feedback forms returned for each service area ranged from 105 to 239, with Vision, and Design, Layout and Floor Space being the most popular proposals for feedback (this may be due to the original online layout where these proposals were listed top/first).

Opening Hours

Respondents were asked to highlight select, from a list of options, what times they would be most likely to use the new library service. Just over half of respondents (187) indicated their preferred times as follows.

¹ 105,389 according to ONS mid-year population estimate 2015

The most popular opening time each day was between 10-5pm, with weekdays proving to be the most popular day, followed by Saturdays and then Sundays.

In terms of new proposed opening hours, the number of respondents indicating they would use the library during these times was as follows:

- Weekdays 5-7pm: 38 respondents (20% of respondents to this question and 10% of total)
- Saturdays 5-7pm: 12 respondents (6%/3% of total)
- Sundays 9-7pm: 58 respondents (31%/16% of total – though specific timeslots varied between 6%-17%)

Protected Characteristics

Sex

There wasn't a significant difference in preferred opening hours by sex. Females were slightly more likely to report wanting to use the library service on weekdays and weekend afternoons and men were more likely to report wanting the library service open on weekend mornings, but the differences are small.

Age

There were some significant differences between age groups when indicating their preferred opening hours:

- Under 18s:
 - Number of respondents: 3 (2% of respondents to this question and 1% of total)
 - Preferred times: weekdays 5-7pm and Sundays 10-12pm
 - Relevant written impacts: would be beneficial for students after school (1)
- 25-34s:
 - Number of respondents: 15 (8%/4%)
 - Preferred times: weekdays 12-2pm, Saturdays 10-5pm and Sundays 12-5pm.
 - Relevant written impacts: work full-time (5)
- 35-44s:
 - Number of respondents: 22 (12%/6%)
 - Preferred times: in line with average
 - Relevant written impacts: work full-time (5)
- 45-59s:
 - Number of respondents: 36 (19%/10%)
 - Preferred times: in line with average
 - Relevant written impacts: work full-time (6) and retired (1)
- 60-75s:
 - Number of respondents: 78 (42%/21%)
 - Preferred times: weekdays 10-5pm
 - Relevant written impacts: work full-time (1), retired (5) and bus pass (3)
- Over 75s:
 - Number of respondents: 21 (11%/6%)
 - Preferred times: weekdays and Saturdays 10-12pm

Disability

There was a slight difference in preferred opening times between those individuals with disabilities and those without:

- Disabled:
 - Number of respondents: 28 (15% of the 187 respondents)
 - Preferred times: weekdays 9-5pm, Saturdays 9-10am and 5-7pm on Saturdays and Sundays

- Relevant written impacts: wheelchair taxis more readily available on weekdays (1), struggle with movement on a morning (1)

Other Service Areas

For almost all service areas, except for opening hours, individuals were asked whether the proposal would:

- Make them more or less likely to use the library service in the future
- Have a positive or negative impact on them

Of the 3462 feedback forms received in respect of these 24 service areas, 2666 (77%) provided an answer to both questions with the remainder either leaving one or both options blank or selecting the don't know/not sure option.

For two thirds of the 24 service areas, the most common responses to these two questions were "Would make no difference" and "No impact" and, for the remaining 8 service areas, the most popular answers were: "Less likely" and "Negative impact".

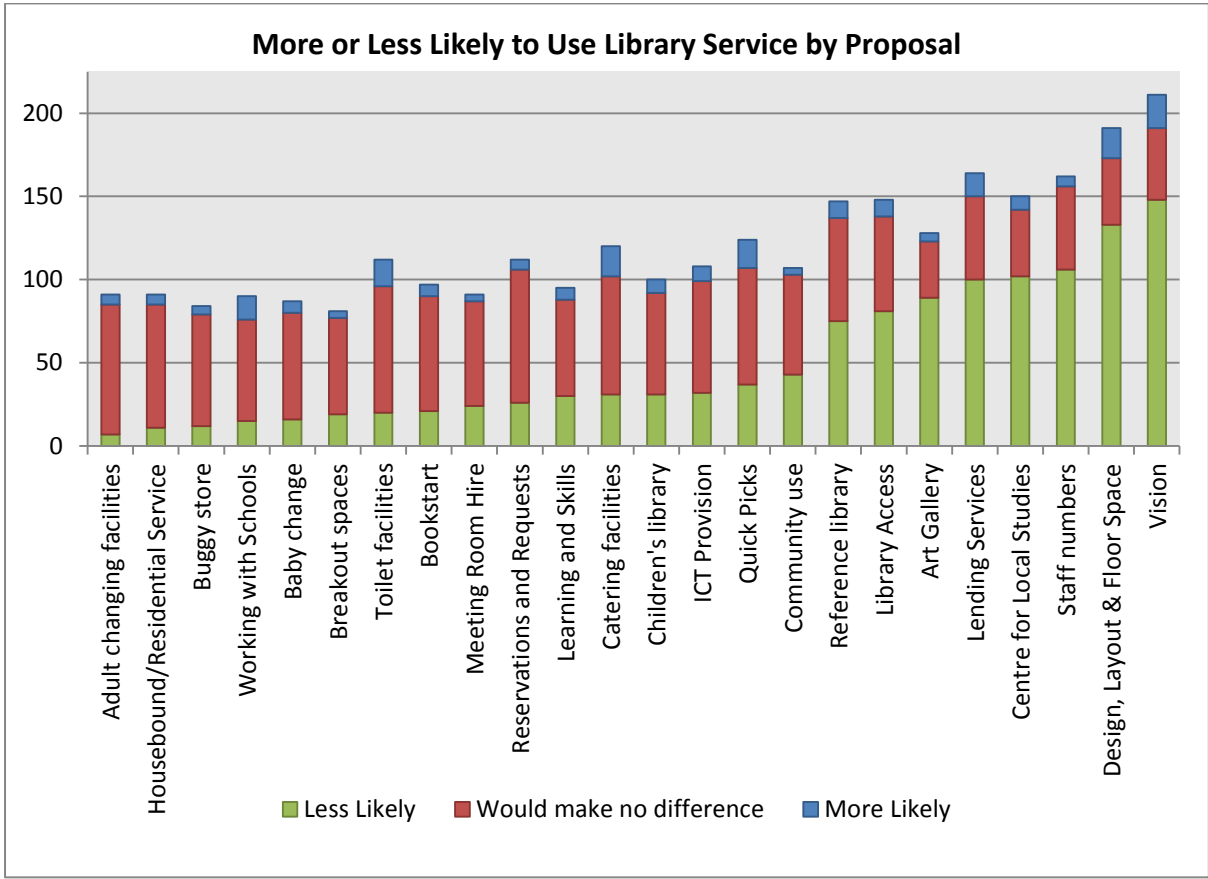

Overall, for all 24 service areas, respondents who offered a view to these questions answered as follows:

Most respondents reported that the proposals:

- Would make them either more likely to use the library or make no difference
- Would have either a positive or no impact on them.

In terms of specific service areas:

Written Impacts

Of the 3462 feedback forms received, 1237 (36%) gave a written response to the request to give details of any positive or negative impacts identified across the 24 service areas. Of these, only 403 (33%) from 177 respondents (48%) actually gave details of what the impact would be (see below for an explanation of how this was determined).

TOTAL	3462	1237	36%	403	33%

As can be seen from the above table, the proportion of applicable written comments per proposal ranged from 0% to 76%, with lower percentages largely since many of the proposals outlined no significant changes to current provision. Those proposals where a higher proportion of applicable written impacts were received relative to feedback forms (Centre for Local Studies, Staff Numbers, Art Gallery and Design, Layout and Floor Space) were those where a clear change relative to current provision has been outlined. Even in these cases, however, the numbers of written impacts received were small, ranging between 48 and 68.

Not applicable

Of the 1237 comments received, 834 (67%) did not articulate a specific impact on the respondent from the service area proposal in question. Of these:

- 267 (32%) related to MTFP decisions which have been consulted on previously and which were not included in this consultation, namely the moving of the central library to the Dolphin Centre, the perceived closure of Cockerton Library and the removal of the Mobile Library service.
- 228 (27%) provided insufficient detail of how a proposal would impact them. Typical responses included restating the proposal without giving further information as to how or why this would be a good or bad thing i.e. "How would this proposal impact on you?" "Less staff"
- 150 (18%) used the comments box to report that the proposal in question was not applicable to them, to leave a comment that did not clearly relate to any of the proposals or to take issue with the question itself.
- 118 (14%) related to service area proposals other than the one the respondent was being asked about.
- 35 (4%) were comments relating to uncertainty around the proposal, either requesting further information on the proposal or stating that whether there would be an impact on them depended on how the proposal turned out.
- 25 (3%) related to the service area in question but had misunderstood the proposal i.e. thought the Art Gallery was moving to the Dolphin Centre or that the only entry to the library would be via the main Dolphin Centre entrance.
- 11 (1%) gave a written impact based on the respondents' assumptions about what the stated proposal would mean in reality. Most these accused the Council of being dishonest and their impact was based on whether the proposal failed to materialise as outlined.

Applicable

The remaining 403 written impacts have been categorised according to proposal area and whether the impact they describe is positive or negative:

The table below outlines the number of applicable written impacts received for each service area proposal, the number of these which were positive and/or negative, respectively, and a brief indication of the impact described to give an idea of the key issues raised for each.

Overall, 69 positive impacts were identified by 30 respondents (8% of total) and 334 negative impacts were identified from 149 respondents (40% of total) for the 24 service proposals. The maximum number of identified impacts received for any one proposal was 68 (Centre for Local Studies).

Level of Impact

As the table below shows, of the 334 negative written impacts received for the 24 service area proposals, on average just over three quarters of these impacts were reported by 122 respondents (33% of total respondents) as being significant enough to make them less likely to use the library service in the future.

Suggestions

Survey respondents were also asked, for each of the proposals, if they had any suggestions they would like the Council to consider. Of the 1151 comments - received from 272 respondents - in response to this request:

- 518 (45% / 173 respondents) were asking the Council to revisit decisions made during the MTFP, specifically
 - 491 (43% / 169 respondents) wanted the central library to remain at Crown Street
 - 15 (1% / 10 respondents) wanted Cockerton Library to remain open
 - 12 (1% / 10 respondents) wanted the Mobile Library service to resume

- 414 (36% / 144 respondents) left a comment that was not a suggestion, for example asking a question about a proposal, reposting their answer from the question on impacts, or stating that they did not want to.
- 48 (4% / 34 respondents) did not leave sufficient detail in their response to be able to confidently interpret their meaning. For example, many comments read simply “Rethink” or “Think again” and others suggested ways in which the Council might raise funding without stating what it should be used for.
- 35 (3% / 31 respondents) suggested the Council should not implement the proposal in question, or elements of it, but gave no suggestion as to how this could be achieved.
- 10 (1% / 9 respondents) comments concerned the survey, rather than the proposal being consulted on.
- 7 (1% / 6 respondents) suggestions were made about where funding could come from to prevent a specific proposal being implemented, most these concerned ideas to stop the Council making library staff redundant with the most common suggestions being cutting wages elsewhere and making other Council employees redundant instead.

The remaining 119 suggestions (10% of the total), from 65 respondents, are summarised in the following table:

Demographics

The following graphs show breakdowns by sex, age group, disability and ethnicity for all feedback forms and applicable written impacts where respondents gave this information, compared to the average for these characteristics across the borough:

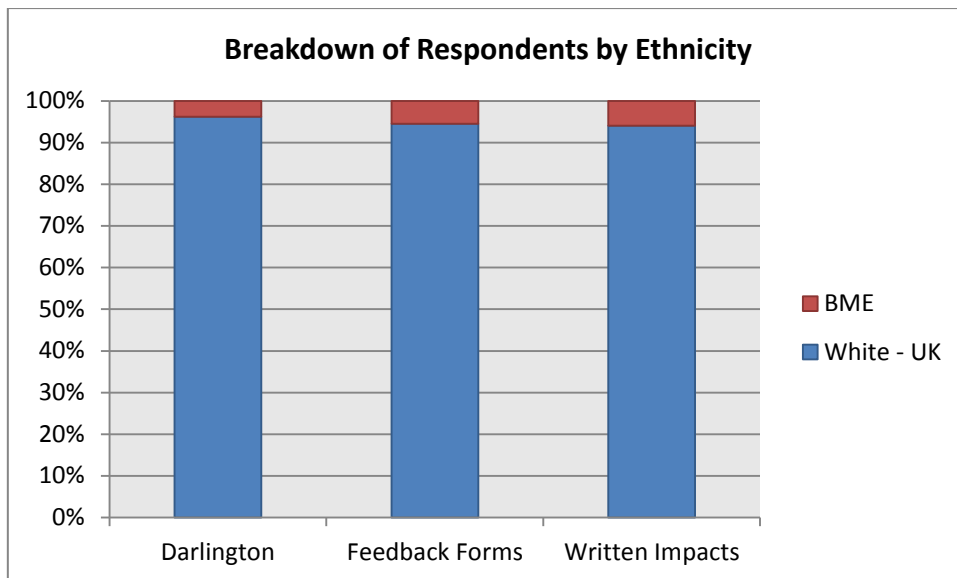

Females were moderately over-represented, relative to borough residents, in both overall responses and applicable written impacts provided.

In terms of age groups, 60-75 year olds were grossly overrepresented in both instances, relative to the proportion of residents of the same age, and under 25s were grossly underrepresented.

The proportion of respondents reporting that they had a disability was slightly lower in both cases than the number for the borough.

The number of respondents reporting that they were from a minority ethnic background (in this instance anything other than White UK) was slightly higher than the corresponding proportion for the borough, meaning they were slightly over-represented in the consultation response.

By adjusting the proportion of feedback forms where respondents reported a proposal had a positive or negative impact on them and the equivalent figure for applicable written impacts to reflect the borough’s demographics, it is possible to see how the above over and under-representation of demographic groups may have skewed the overall consultation findings:

As can be seen, adjusting responses to better reflect the demographic composition of Darlington residents does slightly increase the proportion of responses reporting positive impacts, particularly for all feedback forms received. This is almost wholly down to the significant underrepresentation of under 18s who, in general, were more likely to report positive impacts from the proposals than the average (64% versus 16% for all feedback forms, and 33% versus 18% for written impacts). They were also less likely to leave a written comment which explains why the difference is smaller for written impacts.

Detailed analysis of written impacts by protected characteristic is provided separately in the Equality Impact Assessment.

Residence

137 (37% of total) survey respondents disclosed their post code. Of these, 12 (9%) were not recognised Darlington post codes.

The remaining 125 post codes, as can be seen below, were fairly evenly dispersed across the town, with some slight concentrations in the Northgate and College areas.

Focus Group Feedback

Over the course of the consultation period 17 focus groups were held with a total of 206 participants from the following groups:

- Carers' Strategy Group
- Circle of Friends Carers' Group
- Knitting Group
- Looked After Children
- Bookstart Baby Rhymetime attendees
- Dolphin Centre Breastfeeding Group
- DISC Young Carers Group
- Wiggles and Woggles attendees
- Schools and Colleges:
 - Rydal Academy
 - Reid Street Primary School
 - Corporation Road Primary School
 - Beaumont Hills Academy
 - Mowden Federation of Schools
 - Queen Elizabeth 6th Form College
 - Northwood School
 - Darlington College
 - Learning and Skills Group

Of these, for all 25 proposals:

- 8 focus groups (47%) reported a mix of positive and negative impacts
- 5 focus groups (29%) reported wholly positive impacts
- 3 focus groups (18%) reported wholly negative impacts
- 1 focus group (6%) reported no impacts, either negative or positive

In addition, across the 17 groups:

- 11 proposals (44%) weren't reported as likely to have any impacts on participants, either negative or positive
- 6 proposals (24%) were reported as having wholly positive impacts
- 5 proposals (20%) were reported as likely to have a mixture of positive and negative proposals
- 3 proposals (12%) were reported as having wholly negative impacts

Finally, of the 73 impacts recorded from these sessions:

- 47 (64%) were positive
- 26 (36%) were negative

The proportion of positive impacts recorded at the focus group sessions were notably higher than those received for the survey, in most instances. Anecdotal feedback from the facilitators of the groups suggests that this was due to the conversational nature of these events – in several cases it was reported that groups initially focussed on the decision to move the library from Crown Street and gave negative feedback on this, however once it was explained that the current consultation was about the proposals for how the new service would look/work etc. at the Dolphin Centre, the discussions became much more positive and specific impacts based on the service area proposals were provided, as well as suggestions.

In addition, because feedback was received from focus groups during the consultation period, in several instances mitigations to negative impacts identified have already been put in place. For example, during the focus group with Bookstart Baby Rhymetime attendees, issues around the breastfeeding facilities at the Dolphin Centre were raised and, as a result, the private breastfeeding room has been updated to address these concerns.

Positive Impacts from Focus Groups

They also commented that the layout, specifically the co-location of services, would mean older siblings would be able to use the library whilst their mum was breastfeeding siblings. More generally, participants liked the designed and thought they were well thought out. Participants (Wiggles and Woggles) reported that they liked the designs, the proposed sensory area and the bright colours in the plans. They also reported that they liked the Children’s area being located at the front of the library. 1 participant (Reid Street) reported that the proposed new library looked “mint”. Participants (Corporation Road and Beaumont Hills) reported that the proposed new library looked more exciting, colourful and fun than the current provision and that, as a result, they would want to visit.

Vision	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Participants (Carers’ Strategy Group and Beaumont Hills) commented that the proposal was an excellent opportunity to make the new library more accessible for people with dementia and autism Participants (Looked After Children) stated the proposal would make it easier for them to access the library service as can pop in whilst using Dolphin Centre for other purposes and agreed they’d be more likely to use library service as a result, including the CLS. Also stated the Dolphin Centre was more welcoming to them. Participants (Wiggles and Woggles) stated that the proposals meant the new library service would be more accessible than currently and that co-location meant they’d be more likely to access the service. Participants (Rydal Academy, Reid Street, Mowden Federation, Corporation Road and Northwood Schools) reported that they would all be more likely to access the library service due to the fact they already regularly visit the Dolphin Centre. 1 participant (Northwood) also commented that parents would be able to use the library when children at a party. Participants (Darlington College) commented that the proposed library service seemed more friendly and approachable and they would be more likely to use as a result.

Negative Impacts from Focus Groups

Proposal	Identified Impacts	Mitigations
Baby Change	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Participants (Bookstart) reported that the breastfeeding area at the Dolphin Centre was tired and in need of updating, too small and unsuitable due to location next to toilet and nappy bin Chairs less comfortable than at Crown Street 	This has now been addressed.

Stated a clear room would be more suitable. Participants (Bookstart and Breastfeeding Group) reported concern over open nature of children's library as potential security risk Participants (Looked After Children, Wiggles and Woggles and Northwood School) reported concern about noise from rest of Dolphin Centre travelling to the library Participants (Corporation Road) reported that the children's area looked "babyish" 	Library located away from the pool area – no reason why the books should get damp. Separate quiet entrance to library to be provided via Bull Wynd with quiet study areas available to meet. Space in the children's library will be flexible – can move bookcases to make a smaller, more secure designated space. Additional Groups

In addition to the above focus groups, officers attended meetings of the following groups to present the proposals, take questions and record feedback:

- 11-19 Executive Group
- Darlington Dementia Action Alliance

Feedback from these sessions was generally positive.

After asking questions about the capacity of the proposed new Centre for Local Studies to display maps adequately, what was being taken out of the Dolphin Centre and how noise from other areas would be minimised, the 11-19 Executive Group reported that the proposals:

- offer an exciting opportunity for young and old to mix together more
- modernise the library service and bring it into the 21st century

The discussion with Dementia Action Alliance was extensive and focussed around the opportunities available to ensure the new service was as accessible as possible for everyone, including those with dementia. After questions were asked confirming that it was intended for the Hub to continue and whether there was intended to be piped music at the new service, the group gave the following feedback:

- Suggestions of best practice offered (e.g. the Outpatients reception at Memorial Hospital)
- An offer made by Andrew Ball from the Alzheimer's Society (who has previously supported similar work at Frankland Prison) to help input into the design process
- Key areas and principles highlighted e.g. plain signage, floors/walls/steps easily discernible using colours and contrasts – carpet in plans no good for those with dementia (this had already been raised and fed back to designers)
- Importance of ensuring the whole building is accessible to those with additional needs, not just the library – training for staff offered by Dementia Friends, initially for leisure management team as soon as possible and then cascaded down.

Lending Services	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 11 people reported that the proposal to reduce the amount of lending materials on the shelves would negatively impact them as they would have less choice when selecting items and they would be less able to browse which they enjoy doing. • 5 people said that this proposal would mean they would be more likely to experience delays in getting the items they want • 1 person reported a combination of the above impacts 	Items on display will be selected according to usage statistics, ensuring the most popular are instantly accessible. People will be able to reserve the items they want online to avoid delays.

Vision	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 21 people reported that they did not agree with the Council's principle of co-location, stating that it would be more likely to alienate current library users than attract new ones and that a library is fundamentally incompatible with a leisure centre. 4 people reported that the proposals for the CLS would have a negative impact on them – 3 for the same reasons as raised above and 1 who felt that the wording should be changed to include visitors rather than just residents. 4 people reported that the proposed relocation would reduce accessibility for those with vulnerabilities – specifically 2 mentioned those who are not familiar with the building, 2 person reported the building was stuffy and exacerbated their asthma and 1 person found the Dolphin Centre frightening and loud. 1 person reported that the proposed relocation would negatively affect their business (located near Crown Street) by taking trade away from the area. 	Many examples elsewhere of where a main library service has been incorporated into another building with multiple other uses and been successful. Number of positive written impacts received from people who report they will be more likely to use the new library service in the Dolphin Centre as will be more convenient. Working with local groups e.g. Dementia Action Alliance to ensure design and layout is as accessible as possible for those with vulnerabilities, including those for whom familiarity is very important e.g. dementia/autism. Dolphin Centre meets all requirements for adequate ventilation and there is a separate entrance offered for those who don't want to use main public entrance.
Working With Schools	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 1 person was concerned about children mixing books and wet towels 	Unlikely this would happen.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• 1 person was concerned that more children at the Dolphin Centre would cause chaos	30 schools currently visit the Dolphin Centre on a regular basis and this is managed well – adding a library visit to this at dedicated times during the week would not necessarily mean more children and longer opening hours mean people who don't want to use the library at the same time can do so.
